

LETHEL GARTIN IS MAY QUEEN

CHOSEN AT COLLEGE ELECTION THIS MORNING.

MAY DAY FETE, MAY 9

Will Be Held During Music Week—General Theme Is The Coming of Spring.

Miss Lethel Gartin was elected the Queen of May at a student election held at the State Teachers College this morning. Miss Gartin won over Misses Ruth Houchens, Elvira Ward and Thelma Eaton. The winning vote was ninety-four. Miss Houchens, who was second, polled a vote of fifty-nine. Third place went to Miss Eaton with fifty-five and Miss Ward held down the cellar position with fifty-two. Both the first and second choice are juniors at the College.

Miss Gartin, the elected queen, has been prominent in activities at the College on the Hill for the past three years. For the last two years she has been one of the mainstays of the College girls' basketball team and during her three years as a student at that institution she has been one of the most popular young women students.

The election of the May Queen took place at the regular weekly assembly of the College which was held at 10 o'clock this morning. All of the students present at the assembly were given ballots and the voting took place while the assembly was going on.

The crowning of the May Queen will be held at the May Day Fete, "The Coming of Spring," which will be held on Wednesday, May 9 at 6:15 o'clock. This is one of the features of the annual Music Week.

The theme is the coming of spring and the opening scene is one in which darkness and cold reign. At the entrance of the sun and her rays, darkness and cold are driven off and Flora and ocean awaken. The East Wind heralds the coming of clouds and rain with the accompaniment of thunder and lightning, but the West Wind drives away the clouds and together with the South Wind brings the spring. The May Queen, symbol of Spring, is crowned and the winds and flowers dance in her honor and the villagers in joyous dance twine the maypole.

The singing which is interspersed is provided by the Queen's attendants and the dancers, while the piano, violin and flute carry out the strains of "Dance of the Goblins" by Grieg and other beautiful melodies to which the dances are given.

In all about 125 will take part in the pageant which is being put on by the Departments of Physical Education, Music, Home Economics, Fine Arts and Dramatics. The list of characters in the pageant follows:

May Queen, Lethel Gartin.
Crown Bearer, Helen Dorothy Felix.

M. Club Carnival Was

An All-Round Success

Main Show and Dance Drew Record

Crowd—Letter Club Makes

Money Too.

The M. Club circus at the State Teachers College last night was a success from all angles. From the antics of Jo Jo, the dog faced boy, to the daring of the tight rope walkers and acrobats, everything went off in tip top shape. And the M. Club made money. That's the main thing. Although the proceeds have not all been checked it is estimated that the profits will be in the neighborhood of $75.

A nice crowd attended the circus and for the main show in the boys' gymnasium the entire balcony was filled. In the girls' gymnasium where a dance was held, the floor was crowded most of the time.

A circus at the College is an annual affair. Last year it was the Tower and that the event was conducted for and this year, the letter club undertook the event.

The new champion passed the sixty-nine hour mark and is still dancing. At the same place and within an hour and a half of her, James E. Cansey, Milwaukee salesman, doing the "Highland fling" hung up a new men's record of sixty-six hours and seven minutes.

Harold Hunt, the 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hunt, was operated upon yesterday for appendicitis. He is reported as doing nicely today.

Maryville, "City of Nasturtiums," Plan Is Approved

From all sides are coming expressions of approval and hearty response to the suggested plan by C. C. Leeson to make Maryville, "The City of Nasturtiums." Yesterday the plan was presented to the members of the Twentieth Century Club and met with hearty response. Tomorrow it will be taken up at a meeting of the D. A. R. Mrs. S. T. Gile head of the Women's Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars said that the plan for a city flower would be taken up at the next meeting. "I am sure the members will gladly co-operate with the plan and adopt the idea," Mrs. Robert Lyle of the M. I. Circle said that she could vouch for the M. I. Circle being in favor of the plan.

With the co-operation of everyone in planting at least a few nasturtiums Maryville could soon be known as, "The City of Nasturtiums." The flower is inexpensive, easily cultivated, has plentiful colors and will thrive in almost any soil. Many have also suggested that for shrubs, the bridle wreath be planted and the city make a concerted effort in the cultivation of this plant.

A New Ordinance For City Transfers

City License Must Be Removed Upon Sale of Car—5 Days Grace Provided.

A new ordinance was passed by the city council today effecting the transfer of city license plates upon motor vehicles that are sold or transferred. The present law specifies that the license shall be transferred to the new owner upon the sale of the vehicle.

The new ordinance, which becomes effective in ten days, provides that upon the transfer of ownership of a motor vehicle the city license plate shall terminate and be removed from the car at the time of the transfer. It is provided, however, that the seller may give a written permit to the buyer to use the city license plate for five days after the date of sale, but it then must be returned and is unlawful for it to remain in possession of the new owner of the car after the five-day period.

The original owner may register another car under the same license plate, providing it is of the same horsepower as the old, or pay an additional fee for larger horsepower, upon the payment of transfer fee of one dollar, if made prior to August and fifty cents after August 1.

Penalty provided for violation of the new ordinance is a fine of $5 to $100.

Rivalry Is Intense for D. A. R. President

Washington, April 18.—The mantle of good-natured rivalry, that has thus far predominated in the campaign for the presidency of the daughters of American Revolution, now assembled here in its thirty-second congress, was cast aside today and candidate workers went out to win. Intense rivalry has crept into the election during the past twenty-four hours. Over-ardent campaign workers are out for victory regardless of methods used.

Rumors and allegations of the most uncomplimentary sorts were rife as the congress assembled for its third sitting. Delegates and newspapers have been overwhelmed with a veritable flood of letters, some of them signed, but most of them anonymous, setting forth most uncomfortable things about the several candidates.

U. S. BANK BOOK SHOWING SURPLUS

STATEMENT ISSUED TODAY BY TREASURY DEPARTMENT

PROSPERITY RESPONSIBLE

More People Employed and More Revenues From Income Tax and Custom Revenues

Washington, April 18.—Business prosperity is responsible for the great volume of government revenue from the principal sources, officials of the treasury department announced today.

The treasury's financial statement reflects the healthy conditions of the nation's finances and it is forecasted with a certainty the government's ledger at the end of the present fiscal year will show a substantial increase of receipts over expenditures.

Custom revenues will exceed 500 million dollars by June 30. Already more than 429 million dollars has been collected from this source and money is pouring in at the rate of more than 2 million dollars a day.

Larger earning power of the people of America and maximum employment among all classes are shown by the steadily rising revenues from the income tax. Income taxes paid for the first three quarters will amount to $1,227,000,000. It probably will be increased to nearly 500 billion dollars when collections for the last quarter are tabulated.

Railroad security sales amounted to 100 million dollars and have cleared the decks substantially of the part of the government during its operations during the war.

Officials of the department are encouraged by the postal deficit being about 20 million dollars below that of last year and the government's expenditures for the shipping board and other larger expenses have been sharply reduced due to the economical measures of the President and the budget director.

Just because you
Get in on the ground

Are coming out on top.

We venture to remark that many a Maryville woman has given a party for the pleasure of not inviting some one.

Even if a man is color blind we bet he can see a green back.

We just got the bill for the Mrs. Easter hat and now we can understand the allusion to the "mad hatter."

If all of us would say I will a little more and I wish a little less we would get a little more.

We often hear of men combining business with pleasure and from what we can observe the ratio is 1 per cent business and 99 per cent pleasure.

It must be a heavy honor to be the county checker champion.

It will not be so long now until the barn yard golfers and the cow pasture pool players will be active.

Uncle Abner says the average motorist need not buy a guide as he usually has one sitting on the back seat.

No matter how good business men we may be, we have to pay for a lot of things we do not get; like telephone service.

If we did not have a lot of suckers in this country how do you suppose we would keep the money in circulation?

Although a man may not be ashamed of his faults he usually is ashamed to confess them.

It is funny but when you do right you will still find some things going wrong.

Louise, the stenographer, says umbrellas are like men in that the poorest ones are usually left.

Why worry because you are poor, if you were rich you would worry more. (But the most of us would be willing at that.)

A media friend says the most common disease in Maryville is swelling of the ego.

What the average woman can't understand is how a man can open a telegram without getting excited.

You can't say a girl is timid because she jumps at a proposal.

Vagrant Musings

The only thing which comes out of the pockets of a lot of people is their hands.

Arushing business nearly always is managed by a man who does the same thing.

You can't always figure the total of a man's salary by the amount of work he confesses to.

It often is hard to tell praise from flattery.

The reason so many of us don't get there is that we are afraid to do more than we get paid to do.

Fred Wolfers, Mrs. R. C. Person, Mrs. W. O. Walker and Miss Eva Dawson. Buffet Luncheon Served

A 1 o'clock buffet luncheon preceded the board meeting. The serving table was decorated with a cluster of jonquils. Eighty-six members and the following guests, Mrs. J. L. Deatherage of Kansas City, Mrs. William Dowden of Skidmore, Mrs. Jesse Douglas of Santa Barbara, Cal., and Mrs. Walter Nixon, were in attendance.

Mrs. Roy Curtman of the district standing committee on fine arts gave her report for the year. Mrs. Arthur Brewer read the report which follows:

"Regeneration of Our Fine Arts"
Out of war, comes regeneration, not of one thing, but many. For this reason we look for the dawn of a new day in art.

The age of art just passing has been called a "superficial assumption." There were sculptors whose chisels worked mechanically; poets devoid of the feeling of rhythm or rhyme, and musicians following the line of least resistance and taking refuge behind lengthy series of discords. There were also builders, gentlemen architects, who directed for their polished desks groups of construction men with ideas far swung from exquisitely trained hands, undaunted patience, and the impulse of a clear vision to create such works of art as the "Taj Mahal" in India, the buildings of which took almost a life time and many thousands of skilled artists. European critics classify our artists as crude and undeveloped. This should prick our pride and cause us to not only resent the accusation but begin to admire our own, and thereby, influence others to believe as we do. This in itself, is the first step toward the ability to develop and create an art in keeping with our own wishes.

However earnest may be our longing of the better things, let us not be too harsh. Art is, after all, only the symbolical expression by means of beauty, of the best and highest that exists either in a small or large group of people, not personal, but common desires are the incentives by which it works; and many times necessity brings forth our best efforts.

Perhaps this rapid-thinking acting age has merely been experimental! Beneath it may be latent skill far greater than any yet known. We do know our people have the highest ideals, and a super-abundance of vivacity, and romance, three important requirements. We are able to accomplish astonishing achievements scientifically, so why not artistically.

It may not really be necessary to apologize for what this experimental period has produced. Fancy our finest pieces of art, located in any foreign city. Picture our thousands of tourists, guide books in hand, gazing in awe at their magnificence! Use the proposed "Tribune Tower" as an example, rising as it will in majestic power and beauty, the outcome of a world wide contest for architects, hundreds competing. With joy we greet the fact that "our plan was best" and while taking this stand, we renounce our foreign classification.

Of all the works that are left behind to teach mankind, art is the most lasting. It is more valuable than men themselves, for it not only outlives, but stays alive and is an essential element in moulding times and lives. Universal enthusiasm over the recent unearthing of Egyptian art proves this. We care naught for King Tut-Ankh-Amen, but revel in the thrill his treasures give us.

The influence of art is powerful. It works indirectly. Being a race greedy for knowledge, we absorb it unconsciously, thus making the necessity for the best in each line vitally important. There may be many varieties and still keep within the bounds, but let us hope that the new age will develop an art of absolute beauty minus "isms" and the tolerance of imitators, cubists, and all the others who have been able heretofore to persuade us that ugliness is beauty, that black is white. Let us dare hope that it will be fitting and still smack of knowledge gained from the influence of those who reigned when art was greatest, when there were master writers and musicians, master painters and builders.

We are all pioneers in this stage of art reconstruction. The question may arise locally—what is most tangible, most applicable for us? The work of fine artists brought into our midst is food for the mature mind, and reflects the worthy desire to enrich our own knowledge and exercise a certain proper, good influence over the tastes of our students, but what of the children? Retaining qualities of the infant mind are manifold. We should consider this soberly and act accordingly. In properly supervised kindergarten trainings is found the very seed for the development and appreciation of all fine arts. If it is true that the "combined efforts of a group of alert, well-thinking women can accomplish anything" what a splendid chance there is to prove this and to help mould, as it were, the artistic wisdom of the generations to come whereby we accomplish a step in making possible this comfortable thought of Galsworthy.

Bishop Tuttle Rites
to Be Held Friday

The Rt. Rev. Alexander Charles Garrett of Dallas, 91 Years Old, Becomes Acting Bishop

St. Louis, April 18—The funeral services for Bishop Daniel S. Tuttle, veteran prelate of the Episcopal Church, who died here yesterday afternoon at his home will be as simple as the "poorest member of his church."

These arrangements will be carried out in accordance to the wishes of the late bishop. He will be buried in the Bellefontaine cemetery. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon.

The body will lie in state at the Christ Church from 10 o'clock to 12 o'clock Friday. Ceremonies, which will be held in the same church, will be simple.

Dallas, April 18—The Rt. Rev. Alexander Charles Garrett, bishop of the Dallas diocese, becomes head of the Episcopal church as presiding bishop to succeed Bishop Tuttle, who died yesterday.

Bishop Garrett will be 91 years old November 1 and will hold the position as presiding bishop until the general convention in 1925.

Despite his advanced age he is remarkably active. He has almost completely recovered from a recent illness and now holds chapel services daily. Special services will be held in Dallas at the time of Bishop Tuttle's funeral, Bishop Garrett announced today.

Escaped Confidence Man Taken as He Was Preparing to Take $25,000 on Fake Rice Deal

Beaumont, Texas, April 18—Herbert Coon, known to the police in middle Western cities as the "Brass Kid," who recently escaped from the Arkansas state penitentiary, was arrested here today as he was about to collect $25,000 from a wealthy business man on a fake rice deal, according to the police.

Coon was serving time in the Arkansas prison for a $20,000 swindle in which Frank Cox, oil man of Terre Haute, Indiana, was the victim. He was arrested by William J. Burns and while fighting extradition to Chicago, was kidnapped and taken to Hot Springs for trial and convicted. It is alleged that his fellowmen gave $400 to prison attaches to aid in his recent escape.

Ford's Balance Over
200 Million in Cash

Baldwin Opposed
to Debts Parley

London, April 18—Chancellor of the Exchequer, Stanley Baldwin, told the house of commons today that Great Britain was opposed to an international conference to consider allied debts and reparations.

"Obtaining the maximum reparations from Germany does not depend upon the allied war debts," he said. This is the same viewpoint held by the United States.

Mrs. S. S. Turner of King City arrived in Maryville yesterday afternoon for a visit with her daughter, Miss Edna Turner, who is a teacher in the Maryville High School, and her aunt, Mrs. Mary Gault.

What of America?
Shall This Government Live or Die?

Britain, at an expense of 3 millions, has killed a hundred and fifty Yankees and gained a mile of ground.—Franklin's comment on the Battle of Bunker Hill.

NIV
The Colonies Adopt New England's
War as Their Own

The second continental congress met in May, midway between Lexington and Bunker Hill, facing a posture of affairs that might well have appalled an assembly possessing more regular powers than this one had. Its proceedings gave evidence that it had small understanding of the nature of the crisis that confronted the colonies.

War had actually begun; blood had been shed; Boston was held by an invading force and was besieged by an army of seventeen thousand militia. A battle threatened at any moment. In this situation the congress was wholly lacking in the unity and decision the emergency demanded. It was, indeed without recognized authority and had no assurance of backing from public opinion outside of Massachusetts. It proceeded, therefore, in a zigzag course that resulted in nothing but a series of inconsistencies.

It wasted time in debating a proposal to draw up a petition to the king, but at the same time refused to give back the king's stronghold of Ticonderoga which had been captured by Ethan Allen and his Green Mountain militia. It urged New York against the provocative course of resisting the British if they attempted to land troops there, but thought the New Yorkers might be justified in using force if the enemy attempted to erect fortifications. At the moment it was thus seeking to conciliate the king, it was sitting under the presidency of John Hancock, whom the king hated above all Americans, except Sam Adams, and who was at that moment a proscribed outlaw whom it was the duty of every loyal subject to seize on sight. And at the same time the congress was debating what soft words to use to the king, it was voting to organize a continental army and buy gunpowder to resist the king's authority.

Thus early were Americans given an exhibition of the futility of a government that lacked both power and responsibility. They were about to enter on a long war without any civil government except a factious council powerless, in law, to execute its own decrees. Only by long and bitter experience were the colonies to discover that the source of their weakness in war and in peace, was in this lack of a national authority.

The condition of the army around Boston furnishes a good illustration of the results of this weakness. It was an army neither in organization, equipment nor discipline. Almost every company that appeared was on a different footing from every other. The contingents came with their own officers and under terms of enlistment of their own. It might be said there was no authority to prevent any man from going home when when he wanted to. There were no uniforms and no stores. The army lived during the first months of the siege by a sort of miracle. George III, when informed of the facts, expressed an opinion not without weight from a military viewpoint. He said the larger the force the Americans assembled the better, for it must be sooner dispersed in order to subsist. What the king overlooked, or had no information about, was the temper of the civilian population. If the army had no commissary the people had. Supplies came in from everywhere, donated by towns and individuals; and the soldiers not only had enough but frequently a surplus to sell.

The army lay stretched out on a front of about nine miles, the wings at Dorchester and Malden and the center at Cambridge. The men lived as they could; some in tents, some in churches, and public buildings, but mostly in huts contrived by themselves, of stone, timber or turf. There was hardly any discipline recognizable as military. The camp was perhaps more like a great fair than any thing else. Farmers' wagons would be arriving all day, and the distribution of packages of food and articles of clothing would make for noise and chaffering enough. A system of barter would come easily into effect, and John's new shirt, fashioned for him by his mother, might find an owner in Abner, whose new powder horn John might fancy more. The mothers and sisters were themselves frequent visitors in the camp and contrived by touches of their own to make the huts of the soldiers more homelike.

Within the besieged city the British force, that had bought Bunker Hill at the colonies' own price, was but a single remove from being a captive army. It was doubtful if it could hold Boston, once the Americans were prepared to attack, and it was certain it could not leave it except by water. In this cramped position General Burgoyne must have recoiled with mortification the unfortunate boast he had made on landing a month before, to the effect that he would soon make elbow room. The Bostonians did not allow him to forget that remark. After his surrender at Saratoga two years later Burgoyne was brought to Boston a prisoner. As he was escorted through the crowded streets an old lady called out from a window:

"Make way everybody, and give General Burgoyne elbow room!"

For the ill assorted and unorganized host that held the British thus cooped up, congress had now to find a leader who could turn it into an army. It was not yet even a continental army, but only a New England one. Most of the troops were Massachusetts militia, the rest were from New Hampshire, Connecticut and Rhode Island. The war, to this point, had been New England's war. New England wanted it to be the war of the united colonies, and it was for this reason that when congress decided to take over New England's army, John Adams was ready to make a gesture of generosity and nominate for commander-in-chief one who was not a New Englander.

His suggestion was readily accepted, and June 15, the day before Colonel Prescott intrenched on Bunker Hill, congress chose for general of the continental army a Virginian of some military reputation in the French war, a delegate to congress from his state and chairman of its military committee, and a man of weight and increasing influence in all patriotic councils.

He was Colonel Washington of Mt. Vernon.

Back Yards

Our house front may be shining with varnish and with paint.

Our windows all may glisten in the sun.

We may sweep and dust and clean till ready most to faint.

And hang up brand new curtains one by one.

But if our back yard's cluttered with rubbish and with dirt.

Sold milk bottles and old tomato cans.

Our neighbors, when they look from their windows, may be hurt

By a view of broken glass and rusty pans.

A beautiful green lawn is a charming sight to see.

With robin redbreast tripping here and there.

But if the weeds are carried back and thrown down carelessly

In great untidy heaps, our neighbors stare

And make unkind remarks about the nice effect and grunt

At the way things in our back yard appear.

They care little how we beautify our property in front.

If it's full of piles of rubbish in the rear.

"Always put your best foot foremost," grandmother used to say.

And maybe to a great extent that's true;

But we ought to move the other foot

Reinforcements of unemployed flocked from Duesburg and Oberhausen. During the fracas sticks and stones were flying through the air. The crowd was finally dispersed with streams of water from fire plugs.

It Will Be Necessary for More Homes To Be Opened To Care For Visitors

Figures available this afternoon at the College showed 913 contestants entered in the annual high school events to be held at the College the last three days of next week. Figures from the Chamber of Commerce show that accommodations have been secured for only 750 persons, to say nothing of the number of visitors in addition to the contestants, that will be here. Many of the best homes of Maryville have been opened up to care for the high school students with no thought of remuneration other than preserving Maryville's reputation for hospitality. The College officials will need more rooms to care for the visitors and every resident, who can possibly spare a room is urged to phone the Chamber of Commerce early tomorrow morning.

Agriculture is First

The Census of 1920, for the year ending with the last day of 1919, showed that the total value of manufactured food products, practically all of which was from raw agricultural products, was four times greater than the next largest manufacturing business, that of iron and steel. Meat packing alone represents a greater value, and of course live stock is the backbone of agriculture. It needs no statistics to prove that agriculture is first in world industry.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Relieved of Nervousness and Other Distressing Ailments by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brooklyn, N. Y. — "I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound four years ago, and am taking it now for the Change of Life and other troubles and I receive great benefit from it. I am willing to let you use my letter as a testimonial because it is the truth. I found your booklet in my letter-box and read it carefully, and that is how I came to take the Vegetable Compound myself. It has given me quiet nerves so that I sleep all night, and a better appetite. I have recommended it already to all my friends and relatives." — Mrs. ENGLEMAN, 2032 Palmetto St., Ridgewood, Brooklyn, N. Y.

For the woman suffering from nervous troubles causing sleeplessness, headache, hysteria, "the blues," Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will be found a splendid medicine. For the woman of middle age who is passing through the trials of that period, it can be depended upon to relieve the troubles common at that time.

Remember, the Vegetable Compound has a record of nearly fifty years of service and thousands of women praise its merit, as does Mrs. Englemann. You should give it a fair trial now.

Mound City Woman Has 106th Birthday

Came to Missouri in Early Ox-Team Days

Mound City, April 17—Friends gathered at the home of Robert C. Glenn Sunday to congratulate his mother, Mrs. Jane Dupre Glenn, who celebrated her 106th birthday anniversary.

She was born April 15, 1817, on the Isle of Jersey, just off the coast of France. It was during the same year that her parents migrated to the United States and settled in Gallia county, Ohio. Her childhood days were spent here, and here she was married to John H. Glenn of Hillsboro, Ohio. They came west and settled in what was known as Whig Valley, a cross-roads store and postoffice, located at that time a few miles south of the present town of Maitland, in 1860. Ten years later they moved to Mound City and her home has been there since.

She is strong in body and mind, and when folk gather at the home of her son, where she makes her home, she is considered the life of the party. A party of young persons will listen to her for hours as she recalls vividly the happenings of northwest Missouri since 1860.

She is truly a pioneer. When she came here the ox team was a familiar scene. The farmer used them to plow in the fields. Later came horses and then the famous Missouri mule—the latter now being relegated to the backgrounds by the tractor. She saw the railroad built in northwest Missouri and through Holt county, taking the place of the steamboats which plied up and down the river. The wagon train of the western pioneer seems to her but the event of yesterday. When she first came to Holt county, people were lucky to get the mail once a week. Now the mail is delivered several times a day. When the telegraph came it was the biggest event of the century. In later years she saw wireless telegraphy an established fact, and today can enjoy the radio which steals the "music from the air." And in this age she does not marvel at the airplane as it goes purring overhead.

She has lived with her son for the last sixteen years. She spends much of her time knitting, but is always glad to welcome visitors. She is a careful Bible reader, and when asked the cause of her long life she quoted one of her favorite passages of scripture: "Honor thy father and thy mother that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord, thy God, giveth thee."

Missouri Road Figures

The road mileage of Missouri is 111,521 miles, according to the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture, based on conditions at the opening of 1922. In 1914 Missouri had only 96,041 miles of road. Not including the roads newly improved during 1922, Missouri has 46,311 miles of more or less improved roads, as follows: Graded and drained, 38,451; sand-clay 1,755; gravel, chert and shale, 4,510; water-bound macadam, 1,329; surface treated macadam, 56; bituminous macadam, 104; sheet asphalt 1; bituminous concrete, 12; cement concrete; 103; brick, 10 miles.

She is survived by three brothers, Cyrus, George and Joseph Goley, all of Maryville, and three sisters, Mrs. James Farquhar of Hopkins, Mrs. Ollie Brewer of Dingona, Ia., and Mrs. Dee Callahan of Skidmore. She had resided with her brother, Joseph Goley since July 14. She moved with her husband to Kansas in 1910, and resided there until 1920 when they moved to Montana. LETHAL GARTIN IS MAY QUEEN

CHOSEN AT COLLEGE ELECTION THIS MORNING.

MAY DAY FETE, MAY 9

Will Be Held During Music Week—General Theme Is The Coming of Spring.

Miss Lethal Gartin was elected the Queen of May at a student election held at the State Teachers College this morning. Miss Gartin won over Misses Ruth Houchens, Elvira Ward and Thelma Eaton. The winning vote was ninety-four. Miss Houchens, who was second, polled a vote of fifty-nine. Third place went to Miss Eaton with fifty-five and Miss Ward held down the cellar position with fifty-two. Both the first and second choice are juniors at the College.

Miss Gartin, the elected queen, has been prominent in activities at the College on the Hill for the past three years. For the last two years she has been one of the mainstays of the College girls' basketball team and during her three years as a student at that institution she has been one of the most popular young women students.

The election of the May Queen took place at the regular weekly assembly of the College which was held at 10 o'clock this morning. All of the students present at the assembly were given ballots and the voting took place while the assembly was going on.

The crowning of the May Queen will be held at the May Day Fete, "The Coming of Spring," which will be held on Wednesday, May 9 at 6:15 o'clock. This is one of the features of the annual Music Week.

The theme is the coming of spring and the opening scene is one in which darkness and cold reign. At the entrance of the sun and her rays, darkness and cold are driven off and Flora and ocean awaken. The East Wind heralds the coming of clouds and rain with the accompaniment of thunder and lightning, but the West Wind drives away the clouds and together with the South Wind brings the spring. The May Queen, symbol of Spring, is crowned and the winds and flowers dance in her honor and the villagers in joyous dance twine the maypole.

The singing which is interspersed is provided by the Queen's attendants and the dancers, while the piano, violin and flute carry out the strains of "Dance of the Goblins" by Grieg and other beautiful melodies to which the dances are given.

In all about 125 will take part in the pageant which is being put on by the Departments of Physical Education, Music, Home Economics, Fine Arts and Dramatics. The list of characters in the pageant follows:

M. Club Carnival Was An All-Round Success

Main Show and Dance Drew Record Crowd—Letter Club Makes Money Too.

The M. Club circus at the State Teachers College last night was a success from all angles. From the antics of Jo Jo, the dog faced boy, to the dancing of the tight rope walkers and acrobats, everything went off in tip top shape. And the M. Club made money. That's the main thing. Although the proceeds have not all been checked it is estimated that the profits will be in the neighborhood of $75.

A nice crowd attended the circus and for the main show in the boys' gymnasium the entire balcony was filled. In the girls' gymnasium where a dance was held, the floor was crowded most of the time.

A circus at the College is an annual affair. Last year it was the Tower and that the event was conducted for and this year, the letter club undertook the event.

Maryville, "City of Nasturtiums," Plan Is Approved

From all sides are coming expressions of approval and hearty response to the suggested plan by C. C. Leeson to make Maryville, "The City of Nasturtiums." Yesterday the plan was presented to the members of the Twentieth Century Club and met with hearty response. Tomorrow it will be taken up at a meeting of the D. A. R. Mrs. S. T. Gile head of the Women's Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars said that the plan for a city flower would be taken up at the next meeting. "I am sure the members will gladly co-operate with the plan and adopt the idea," Mrs. Robert Lyle of the M. I. Circle said that she could vouch for the M. I. Circle being in favor of the plan.

With the co-operation of everyone in planting at least a few nasturtiums Maryville could soon be known as, "The City of Nasturtiums." The flower is inexpensive, easily cultivated, has plentiful colors and will thrive in almost any soil. Many have also suggested that for shrubs, the bridge wreath be planted and the city make a concerted effort in the cultivation of this plant.

A new ordinance was passed by the city council today effecting the transfer of city license plates upon motor vehicles that are sold or transferred. The present law specifies that the license shall be transferred to the new owner upon the sale of the vehicle.

Rivalry Is Intense for D. A. R. President

Washington, April 18.—The mantle of good-natured rivalry, that has thus far predominated in the campaign for the presidency of the daughters of American Revolution, now assembled here in its thirty-second congress, was cast aside today and candidate workers went out to win. Intense rivalry has crept into the election during the past twenty-four hours. Over-ardent campaign workers are out for victory regardless of methods used.

Rumors and allegations of the most uncomplimentary sorts were rife as the congress assembled for its third sitting. Delegates and newspapers have been overwhelmed with a veritable flood of letters, some of them signed, but most of them anonymous, setting forth most uncomfortable things about the several candidates.

U. S. BANK BOOK SHOWING SURPLUS

PROSPERITY RESPONSIBLE

More People Employed and More Revenues From Income Tax and Custom Revenues

Washington, April 18.—Business prosperity is responsible for the great volume of government revenue from the principal sources, officials of the treasury department announced today.

The treasury's financial statement reflects the healthy conditions of the nation's finances and it is forecasted with a certainty the government's ledger at the end of the present fiscal year will show a substantial increase of receipts over expenditures.

Custom revenues will exceed 500 million dollars by June 30. Already more than 429 million dollars has been collected from this source and money is pouring in at the rate of more than 2 million dollars a day.

Larger earning power of the people of America and maximum employment among all classes are shown by the steadily rising revenues from the income tax. Income taxes paid for the first three quarters will amount to $1,227,000,000. It probably will be increased to nearly 500 billion dollars when collections for the last quarter are tabulated.

Railroad security sales amounted to 100 million dollars and have cleared the decks substantially of the part of the government during its operations during the war.

Officials of the department are encouraged by the postal deficit being about 20 million dollars below that of last year and the government's expenditures for the shipping board and other larger expenses have been sharply reduced due to the economical measures of the President and the budget director.

Sugar Reaches a New High Level

New York, April 18.—A new high price for sugar was reached today when the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company posted a price of $0.985 a pound.

James Larkin, Radical Is Ordered Deported

Washington, April 18.—James Larkin, noted Irish agitator, recently paroled by Governor Al Smith of New York, will be deported. It was announced today by Secretary of Labor, James J. Davis. Larkin was imprisoned because of his alleged radical activities. His attorneys have been ordered to present him at Ellis Island to carry out the deportation orders.

Merchandise Train Wrecked, 1 Killed

New Orleans, April 18.—The fast merchandising train No. 52 of the Illinois Central Railroad, from New Orleans to Chicago, was wrecked at Hammond, Louisiana early today killing Henry Raffan, engineer. The injured were John Rogers, fireman, leg badly crushed and John Smith, minor injuries.

Few Irish Irregulars Chiefs are at Large

Dublin, April 18.—The capture of Dan Breen and other irregular leaders, leaves only one of the chief lieutenants of Eamon De Valera, Free State officials said today. The officials said that search was still being made by De Valera in the region of Glannon Harlow, where Breen had been taken. The rumor he had been captured and was being secretly detained was denied today from responsible sources.

Just because you
Get in on the ground

Are coming out on top.

We venture to remark that many a Maryville woman has given a party for the pleasure of not inviting some one.

Even if a man is color blind we bet he can see a green back.

We just got the bill for the Mrs. Easter hat and now we can understand the allusion to the "mad hatter."

If all of us would say I will a little more and I wish a little less we would get a little more.

We often hear of men combining business with pleasure and from what we can observe the ratio is 1 per cent business and 99 per cent pleasure.

It must be a heavy honor to be the county checker champion.

It will not be so long now until the barn yard golfers and the cow pasture pool players will be active.

Uncle Abner says the average motorist need not buy a guide as he usually has one sitting on the back seat.

No matter how good business men may be, we have to pay for a lot of things we do not get; like telephone service.

If we did not have a lot of suckers in this country how do you suppose we would keep the money in circulation?

Although a man may not be ashamed of his faults he usually is ashamed to confess them.

It is funny but when you do right you will still find some things going wrong.

Louise, the stenographer, says umbrellas are like men in that the poorest ones are usually left.

Why worry because you are poor, if you were rich you would worry more. (But the most of us would be willing at that.)

A medic friend says the most common disease in Maryville is swelling of the ego.

What the average woman can't understand is how a man can open a telegram without getting excited.

You can't say a girl is stupid because she jumps at a proposal.

Vagrant Musings

The only thing which comes out of the pockets of a lot of people is their hands.

Brushing business nearly always is managed by a man who does the same thing.

You can't always figure the total of a man's salary by the amount of work he confesses to.

It often is hard to tell praise from flattery.

The reason so many of us don't get there is that we are afraid to do more than we get paid to do.

A 1 o'clock buffet luncheon preceded the board meeting. The serving table was decorated with a cluster of jonquills. Eighty-six members and the following guests, Mrs. J. L. Deatherage of Kansas City, Mrs. William Howden of Skidmore, Mrs. Jesse Douglas of Santa Barbara, Cal., and Mrs. Walter Nixon, were in attendance.

Mrs. Roy Cartman of the district standing committee on fine arts gave her report for the year. Mrs. Arthur Brewer read the report which follows:

"Regeneration of Our Fine Arts"
Out of war, comes regeneration, not of one thing, but many. For this reason we look for the dawn of a new day in art.

The age of art just passing has been called a "superficial assumption." There were sculptors whose chisels worked mechanically; poets devoid of the feeling of rhythm or rhyme, and musicians following the line of least resistance and taking refuge behind lengthy series of discords. There were also builders, gentlemen architects, who directed from their polished desks groups of construction men with ideas far swung from exquisitely trained hands, undaunted patience, and the impulse of a clear vision to create such works of art as the "Taj Mahal" in India, the buildings of which took almost a life time and many thousands of skilled artists. European critics classify our artists as crude and undeveloped. This should prick our pride and cause us to not only resent the accusation but begin to admire our own, and thereby, influence others to believe as we do. This in itself, is the first step toward the ability to develop and create an art in keeping with our own wishes.

However earnest may be our longing of the better things, let us not be too harsh. Art is, after all, only the symbolic expression by means of beauty, of the best and highest that exists either in a small or large group of people, not personal, but common desires, and the incentives by which it works; and many times necessity brings forth our best efforts.

Perhaps this rapid-thinking acting age has merely been experimental! Beneath it may lie latent skill far greater than any yet known. We do know our people have the highest ideals, and a super-abundance of vivacity, and romance, three important requirements. We are able to accomplish astonishing achievements scientifically, so why not artistically.

It may not really be necessary to apologize for what this experimental period has produced. Fancy our finest pieces of art, located in any foreign city. Picture our thousands of tourists, guide books in hand, gazing in awe at their magnificence! Use the proposed "Tribune Tower" as an example, rising as it will in majestic power and beauty, the outcome of a world wide contest for architects, hundreds competing. With joy we greet the fact that "our plan was best" and while taking this stand, we renounce our foreign classification. Of all the works that are left behind to teach mankind, art is the most lasting. It is more valuable than men themselves, for it not only outlives, but stays alive and is an essential element in molding times and lives. Universal enthusiasm over the recent unearthing of Egyptian art proves this. We care naught for King Tut-Ankh-Amen, but revel in the thrill his treasures give us.

The influence of art is powerful. It works indirectly. Being a race greedy for knowledge, we absorb it unconsciously, thus making the necessity for the best in each line vitally important. There may be many varieties and still keep within the bounds, but let us hope that the new age will develop an art of absolute beauty minus "isms" and the tolerance of imitators, cubists, and all the others who have been able heretofore to persuade us that ugliness is beauty, that black is white. Let us dare hope that it will be fitting and still smack of knowledge gained from the influence of those who reigned when art was greatest, when there were master writers and musicians, master painters and builders.

We are all pioneers in this stage of art reconstruction. The question may arise locally—what is most tangible, most applicable for us? The work of fine artists brought into our midst is food for the mature mind, and reflects the worthy desire to enrich our own knowledge and exercise a certain proper, good influence over the tastes of our students, but what of the children? Retarding qualities of the infant mind are manifold. We should consider this soberly and act accordingly. In properly supervised kindergarten trainings is found the very seed for the development and appreciation of all fine arts. If it is true that the "combined efforts of a group of alert, well-thinking women can accomplish anything" what a splendid chance there is to prove this and to help mould, as it were, the artistic wisdom of the generations to come whereby we accomplish a step in making possible this comfortable thought of Gailsworthy.

Escaped Confederate Man Taken as He Was Preparing to Take $25,000 on Fake Rice Deal

Beaumont, Texas, April 18—Herbert Coon, known to the police in middle Western cities as the "Brass Kid," who recently escaped from the Arkansas state penitentiary, was arrested here today as he was about to collect $25,000 from a wealthy business man on a fake rice deal, according to the police.

Coon was serving time in the Arkansas prison for a $20,000 swindle in which Frank Cox, oil man of Terre Haute, Indiana, was the victim. He was arrested by William J. Barnes and while fighting extradition to Chicago, was kidnapped and taken to Hot Springs for trial and convicted. It is alleged that his fellow-men gave $400 to prison attaches to aid in his recent escape.

Ford's Balance Over
200 Million in Cash

New York, April 18—Henry Ford declared today that the cash balance of the Ford Motor Company exceeded 200 million dollars despite its large purchases of coal and timber lands, water power sites and other investments, according to a dispatch today from Detroit to the Wall Street Journal.

Baldwin Opposed
to Debts Parley

London, April 18—Chancellor of the Exchequer, Stanley Baldwin, told the house of commons today that Great Britain was opposed to an international conference to consider allied debts and reparations.

"Obtaining the maximum reparations from Germany does not depend upon the allied war debts," he said. This is the same viewpoint held by the United States.

Mrs. S. S. Turner of King City arrived in Maryville yesterday afternoon for a visit with her daughter, Miss Edna Turner, who is a teacher in the Maryville High School, and her aunt, Mrs. Mary Gault.

Britain, at an expense of 3 millions, has killed a hundred and fifty Yankees and gained a mile of ground.—Franklin's comment on the Battle of Bunker Hill.

XIV
The Colonies Adopt New England's
War as Their Own

The second continental congress met in May, midway between Lexington and Bunker Hill, facing a posture of affairs that might well have appeared an assembly possessing more regular powers than this one had. Its proceedings gave evidence that it had small understanding of the nature of the crisis that confronted the colonies.

War had actually begun; blood had been shed; Boston was held by an invading force and was besieged by an army of seventeen thousand militia. A battle threatened at any moment. In this situation the congress was wholly lacking in the unity and decision the emergency demanded. It was, indeed, without recognized authority and had no assurance of backing from public opinion outside of Massachusetts. It proceeded, therefore, in a zigzag course that resulted in nothing but a series of inconsistencies.

It wasted time in debating a proposal to draw up a petition to the king, but at the same time refused to give back the king's stronghold of Ticonderoga which had been captured by Ethan Allen and his Green Mountain militia. It urged New York against the provocation course of resisting the British if they attempted to land troops there, but thought the New Yorkers might be justified in using force if the enemy attempted to erect fortifications. At the moment it was thus seeking to conciliate the king, it was sitting under the presidency of John Hancock, whom the king hated above all Americans, except Sam Adams, and who was at that moment a proscribed outlaw whom it was the duty of every loyal subject to seize on sight. And at the same time the congress was debating what soft words to use to the king, it was voting to organize a continental army and buy gunpowder to resist the king's authority.

Thus early were Americans given an exhibition of the futility of a government that lacked both power and responsibility. They were about to enter on a long war without any civil government except a factious council powerless, in law, to execute its own decrees. Only by long and bitter experience were the colonies to discover that the source of their weakness in war and in peace, was in this lack of a national authority.

The condition of the army around Boston furnishes a good illustration of the results of this weakness. It was an army neither in organization, equipment nor discipline. Almost every company that appeared was on a different footing from every other. The contingents came with their own officers and under terms of enlistment of their own. It might be said there was no authority to prevent any man from going home when when he wanted to. There were no uniforms and no stores. The army lived during the first months of the siege by a sort of miracle. George III, when informed of the facts, expressed an opinion not without weight from a military viewpoint. He said the larger the force the Americans assembled the better, for it must the sooner disperse in order to subsist. What the king overlooked, or had no information about, was the temper of the civilian population. If the army had no commissary the people had. Supplies came in from everywhere, donated by towns and individuals; and the soldiers not only had enough but frequently a surplus to sell.

The army lay stretched out on a front of about nine miles, the wings at Dorchester and Malden and the center at Cambridge. The men lived as they could; some in tents, some in churches, and public buildings, but mostly in huts contrived by themselves, of stone, timber or turf. There was hardly any discipline recognizable as military. The camp was perhaps more like a great fair than anything else. Farmers' wagons would be arriving all day, and the distribution of packages of food and articles of clothing would make for noise and chattering enough. A system of barrier would come easily into effect, and John's new shirt, fashioned for him by his mother, might find an owner in Abner, whose new powder horn John might fancy more. The mothers and sisters were themselves frequent visitors in the camp and contrived by touches of their own to make the huts of the soldiers more homelike.

Within the besieged city the British force, that had bought Bunker Hill at the colonists' own price, was but a single remove from being a captive army. It was doubtful if it could hold Boston, once the Americans were prepared to attack, and it was certain it could not leave it except by water. In this cramped position General Burgoyne must have recalled with mortification the unfortunate boast he had made on landing a month before, to the effect that he would soon make elbow room. The Bostonians did not allow him to forget that remark. After his surrender at Saratoga two years later Burgoyne was brought to Boston a prisoner. As he was escorted through the crowded streets an old lady called out from a window:

"Make way everybody, and give General Burgoyne elbow room!"

For the ill assorted and unorganized host that held the British thus cooped up, congress had now to find a leader who could turn it into an army. It was not yet even a continental army, but only a New England one. Most of the troops were Massachusetts militia, the rest were from New Hampshire, Connecticut and Rhode Island. The war, to this point, had been New England's war. New England wanted it to be the war of the united colonies, and it was for this reason that when congress decided to take over New England's army, John Adams was ready to make a gesture of generosity and nominate for commander-in-chief one who was not a New Englander.

His suggestion was readily accepted, and June 15, the day before Colonel Prescott entrenched on Bunker Hill, congress chose for general of the continental army a Virginian of some military reputation in the French war, a delegate to congress from his state and chairman of its military committee, and a man of weight and increasing influence in all patriotic circles.

He was Colonel Washington of Mt. Vernon.

Back Yards

Our house front may be shining with varnish and with paint, Our windows all may glisten in the sun; We may sweep and dust and clean till ready most to faint, And hang up brand new curtains one by one; But if our back yard's cluttered with rubbish and with dirt, Soiled milk bottles and old tomato cans, Our neighbors, when they look from their windows, may be hurt By a view of broken glass and rusty pans.

A beautiful green lawn is a charming sight to see, With robin redbreast tripping here and there, But if the weeds are carried back and thrown down carelessly In great untidy heaps, our neighbors stare And make unkind remarks about the nice effect and grunt At the way things in our back yard appear; They care little how we beautify our property in front, If it's full of piles of rubbish in the rear.

again in the free motion I used to have when my days were younger. I look at my hands and think of the twists and swellings they used to have. I bend way over to do the door. I haven't been able to do that in many years. I can thank S. S. S. for it all! To me it was a rising sun of joy and liberty. Brothers and sisters in misery, do not close your eyes and think that health, free motion and strength are gone from you forever! It is not so. It is here and now for all of you. S. S. S. is waiting to help you. There is a reason why S. S. S. will help you. When you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, the entire system undergoes a tremendous change. Everything depends on blood-strength. Blood which is minus sufficient red-cells leads to a long list of troubles. Rheumatism is one of them. S. S. S. is the great blood-cleanser, blood-builder, system strengthener, nerve invigorator. It stops skin eruptions, too, pimples, blackheads, acne, boils, eczema. It builds up run-down, tired men and women, beautifies complexions, makes the flesh firmer. Start S. S. S. today. It is sold at all good drug stores. The larger size is more economical.

Unemployed Riot in Ruhr District

Essen, April 18.—One man was killed and nearly a score of others were wounded in unemployment riots in the Ruhr today.

At Mulheim a mob of jobless Germans stormed the city hall. French troops, who are stationed in the city, made no effort to interfere with the demonstration. Mulheim is the home of Hugo Stinnes, the German industrialist.

Reinforcements of unemployed flock-ed from Duesburg and Oberhausen. During the fracas sticks and stones were flying through the air. When the city hall was attacked a handful of mun-

Accommodations for 750; 913 Entries In

It Will Be Necessary for More Homes To Be Opened To Care For Visitors

Figures available this afternoon at the College showed 913 contestants entered in the annual high school events to be held at the College the last three days of next week. Figures from the Chamber of Commerce show that accommodations have been secured for only 750 persons, to say nothing of the number of visitors in addition to the contestants, that will be here. Many of the best homes of Maryville have been opened up to care for the high school students with no thought of remuneration other than preserving Maryville's reputation for hospitality. The College officials will need more rooms to care for the visitors and every resident, who can possibly spare a room is urged to phone the Chamber of Commerce early tomorrow morning.
